Re: NGO Status with the WHO

ISA has renewed its official relations as a Nongovernmental Organization (NGO) with the World Health Organization (WHO) in 2017. ISA was represented at the last meeting of the Policy and Coordination Committee of the Human Reproduction Programme of the WHO in June in Geneva, Switzerland. At this meeting ISA joint forces with other NGOs to improve reproductive health on a global level.

ISA President Prof. Andreas Meinhardt stated:

‘In pursing reproductive health with an emphasis on the male ISA as a world-spanning umbrella society for national andrological bodies is ideally situated to advise the WHO as the major global health community.’
