Registration: www.youngresearch.eu
Then you are invited to join the International Network for Young Researchers in Male Fertility (INYRMF)!

The network was founded to help young scientists in the field of male fertility to interact with each other, exchange experience and knowhow, and to promote international collaboration. Although no age limit was set, the network focuses on scientists new to the field and counts at the moment more than 300 members.

Furthermore, our webpage and especially the forum facilitate the exchange between members, advertise new job opportunities and offer the possibility to get answers to scientific and technical questions.
