Course co-ordinators
Sheena E.M. Lewis (United Kingdom) and Jackson Kirkman Brown (United Kingdom)

Course description
This course will present the latest research on male reproductive health and debate two issues: whether male fertility is declining and secondly if ART is a solution to Europe’s demographic demise

i) The impact on ART on falling birth rates on European Society
ii) The economic benefits of ART on European Society
iii) Factors causing the increase in couples seeking ART year on year
iv) The health of children conceived with surgically retrieved sperm
v) Controlling male fertility by hormonal contraception

Target audience
Clinicians, paramedical staff, embryologists and andrologists with an interest in male reproduction and the differing schools of thought on male fertility public health issues